

Cross curricular guide

Culture, media & the arts

Maths	English	Science	Humanities	Elsewhere
Finances: Choose a notable figure who has been #cancelled. Was there a direct impact on how much they earned? How did it affect their "brand"? Did they lose contracts? Map this in pairs.	Modern Prose &amp; Drama: Imagine you were trying to explain today's culture to a particularly close-minded character from one of your texts. How would the conversation would go? Act it out if you like!	Physics – Inventions: Find out about a physicist whose ideas were initially considered "crazy". What was the scientific reasoning behind this? Where would we be without these ideas?	Geography – Economic Change: Choose a product often promoted by celebrities or influencers (e.g. cosmetics or apps). Map how its sales have changed over time in a country of your choice.	Modern Foreign Languages – Speaking (Starter): Learn a phrase (or phrases) in another language relating to social media. Then repeat it to a partner. Can they guess the meaning? What gave it away?
Measurement: Work out the average distance covered by a paparazzo's camera in comparison with a camera phone. What's the difference in image quality?	Non-Fiction Text Types: Use any examples you've seen of people being cancelled online to come up with a guide to keeping your profile squeaky-clean on social media!	Biology – Evolution: Can you come up with a simple explanation for the biological impulses behind "pack mentality"? What is it about in a group that makes us more inclined to act the same way?	RE – Media: Choose a famous figure who you feel is a positive role model for young people of a certain faith. Write a letter to them outlining how they have changed your perspective.	Music – Film &amp; TV: As a class, come up with a list of 10 celebrities. In groups, pick one and compose a theme tune for their life! Can the rest of the class guess who you chose?